CRITERION HOTEL

99 Macalister Street
In 1865, tenders were taken to build a large hotel in Sale, which saw the Criterion Hotel take shape. Additions have included the veranda in 1878 and more recently the Hotel has undergone a major rejuvenation turning the building into a boutique restaurant and accommodation venue.

SALE HISTORICAL SOCIETY

130 Foster Street
Believed to be the oldest municipal building in Gippsland, the original section was the first council chambers built in 1864 when the Borough of Sale was established. Council vacated the property in 1960.

COLONIAL CLUB HOTEL

101-105 Foster Street
Built in 1858 by Richard Bennison, the Club Hotel was a hub for squatters. A visit by the Prince of Wales is commemorated by a plaque in the hotel. A serious fire in the late 1900s the hotel was later restored in the 1980s.

MONUMENTS

SALE HISTORIC WALK

THE MIDDLE OF EVERYWHERE

This Sale Historical Walk is a leisurely hour and a half walk throughout the historical buildings, and environmental heritage of the Sale township.

PORT OF SALE

Grand Canal Drive, Sale
The Port of Sale and man-made Sale Canal, was completed in 1890, linked the town to the Gippsland Lakes system, allowing access by boat to the Bass Strait.

PORT OF SALE PRECINCT

70 - 100 Foster Street, Sale
Consisting of The Wedge Entertainment Centre, The Wellington Centre and surrounding outdoor areas, the Port of Sale precinct offers many spaces to enjoy.

ST MARY`S CATHEDRAL

47 - 57 Foster Street
The present church was built on the site of an earlier chapel. Work commenced on the church in 1886 by local builder George Wynd. In 1887, Sale became a diocese with James Corbett the founding Bishop.

ST PATRICKS COLLEGE

29 - 41 Pearson Street
St Patricks College was constructed in 1921 and has recently undergone some redevelopment to the buildings. The school was opened by the Marist Brothers and later amalgamated with Our Lady of Sion in 1977.

SALE COURTHOUSE

79-87 Foster Street
The first part of the Courthouse complex was commenced in 1863 as the Magistrate's Court. In 1889 a larger courthouse, the Supreme Court was constructed.

SULLIVAN BRAHAM LTD

104 Raymond Street
This imposing headquarters was built by the Bank of Australiasia in 1875, the scale is reflecting the banks confidence in Sale as a regional centre.

AMP BUILDING

118-124 Raymond Street
Erected in 1930 to replace an earlier 1919 building. The Australian Mutual Provident building was described as the 'most notable addition to the architecture of the town'.

ALLMAN MORONEY

121 Raymond Street
This impressive classical building was originally the Commonwealth Bank, built in 1889 and is a further demonstration to the economic strength of Sale by the late 1880s.

COBB & CO STABLES

199 Raymond Street
The Stables, a large timber building was originally built in 1878, that same year they were occupied by Robertson, Wagner & Co, who traded as Cobb & Co Stables.

CLOCKTOWER

Pedestrian Mall
The original clocktower was built in 1884 as an addition to the post office and demolished in 1964. In 1988, the current tower was built as a community project. The design was based on the former post office.

CENTRE BAKERY

103 Cunninghame Street
Built for the Methodist congregatation in Sale in 1965, this former Methodist Sunday School has been converted into a modern bakery.

ST PAULS CATHEDRAL

149 Cunninghame Street
St Paul's Cathedral was built by a local builder in 1883-84 to replace the first St Paul's. It became a cathedral following the creation of the Anglican Diocese in 1902 with Dr A.W. Pain as Bishop.

VICTORIA PARK

Cnr Marley & Cunninghame Streets
A large brick water tower (now a museum) was constructed in 1887 and a smaller concrete tower in 1922. The bandstand was built in 1913 to celebrate the Jubilee of Sale. It was dismantled in 1976 and reconstructed in 1980-83.

SALE PRIMARY SCHOOL

123-135 Macalister Street
Sale State School was built in 1882-83 to replace the Common School in Raymond Street, part of which still remains. The school reflects Venetian Gothic influences with its wall patterns and window arches.
